

Why AI search results cite your competitor, not you

THE REASON

Your competitor is in the threads

Ask Claude if a tool is worth it, with web search on.
It pulls Reddit threads into the answer.
Your competitor is in those threads. You're not.
I fixed that with 7 Claude prompts. Here's how.

STEP 01 / 04

Find the threads Claude reads

Ask Claude the same question about your kind of tool.
Check the sources.
Write down every Reddit thread.
Don't post in them yet.

STEP 02 / 04

Earn trust before you post

Every subreddit has rules. Some block new accounts.
Read them first.
Then answer questions you've solved. No links.
Once you're known, start your own thread.

STEP 03 / 04

Start a thread Claude can quote

Tell a real story: what you tried and what worked.
Put the answer in the first line.
Say you built the product.
Then find out if it worked.

STEP 04 / 04

Check if Claude names you

Once a month, ask Claude the same question.
Is your thread in the sources?
Is your product in the answer?
Every step has a prompt. Want them?

You built it. Get it found.

Comment SEARCH. I'll DM you all 7 Claude prompts.

Follow @stacklevels →